Who this course is for

Living from Grace program is designed for people with established healing practices and anyone interested in growth and transformation. There aren't any set pre-requisites: you are a good candidate if you have committed to your own healing journey. A tremendous amount of self-healing occurs during the course—and self-healing opens many doors to how we express our selves in our home and work lives. Some students will have healing work experience. Few people will have actual healing practices established. So you may want to use the information professionally in other ways—or just in your personal life.
